Watchdog critical of murder investigation

AN INDEPENDENT inquiry roundly condemned control room staff at Northamptonshire Police for the way a frantic 999 call from a petrified teenager as her family was being stabbed to death.

The investigation was launched after the horrific murders of university lecturer Jifeng Ding, aged 46, his wife Helen Chui, aged 47, and their two daughters, Xing, aged 18, and Alice, aged 12.

The four family members were stabbed to death at their home in Pioneer Close, Simpson Manor, Wootton, on April 29 last year, the day of the Royal Wedding.

The report by the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC), published on Tuesday, condemned a catalogue of errors by control room staff, which led to police officers being dispatched to the wrong address, ruining a potential chance to catch the killer.

Anxiang Du, the man who police suspect stabbed the Ding family to death over a business feud, has still not been caught, 10 months later.

The IPCC criticised the force's reaction to the emergency call made by Xing on her mobile as "badly mis-handled".

The report revealed police were alerted to the "abandoned" call by BT staff at around 3.30pm on the day of the murders, when Xing's terrified screams could be heard briefly

The Ding family were found murdered in their Wootton home last May before the phone went dead.

However, police mistakenly traced her mobile number to the edge of Collingtree Park Golf Club, two miles away from the murder scene. Officers were then dispatched to the wrong address, wasting "potentially crucial minutes of police time".

It also emerged the 999 call was "prematurely" closed by a force control room supervisor, "without sufficient consideration or effort given to establish the welfare of the caller".

Deputy Chief Constable Suzette Davenport said steps had been taken so that a similar incident could "never again" happen in Northamptonshire.

Ms Davenport said: "We do know that even if we had quickly identified the address from the mobile phone details, we would not, and I repeat, not have saved any lives of the family members, such were their injuries.

"However, we would accept that it is possible that we might have located the main suspect Anxiang Du.

Control room staff have all now been re-trained and the "philosophy" of the department transformed, with police inspectors and sergeants now overseeing similar incidents.

Schoolboy held after 'threats made on web'

A 15-YEAR-OLD boy was arrested at his home in Northamptonshire in a swoop involving about 20 police officers after he allegedly made threats on a website.

Northamptonshire Police declined to reveal exactly what kind of threats were made on the USA-based website, but it is understood some air guns were recovered by officers at the address.

A statement issued by police said: "He was arrested following disclosures of a threatening nature, which were conveyed via a variety of social networking media.

"The boy has been released on police bail pending further enquiries and is currently detained under the Mental Health Act outside of Northamptonshire."

Cooblers boost to Chron fund

A JOINT partnership between the Chronicle & Echo, the Cobblers and charity Macmillan Cancer Support raised more than £10,000 towards a new £2.2 million haematology unit at Northampton General Hospital.

Northampton Town discounted tickets for their two games against Macclesfield Town and Port Vale last week, and a proportion of the sale price was given to the charity.

The initiative raised a total of £9,241, and volunteers collected a further £1,167 from supporters, meaning the charity will benefit from a total of £10,381.

Chris and Joe Copas, Gareth Eales, Kevin Malpas and Betty Onley have called for action to reduce noise from the surface of Gladstone Road

Road noise 'like plane taking off'

A ROAD in Northampton on which 'rumble strips' were installed last year is to be resurfaced again after residents described the noise of passing vehicles as "like a plane taking off".

As part of a £6.8 million regeneration scheme in 2011, Northamptonshire County Council introduced a new road surface and 20mph speed limit in Gladstone Road in Spencer.

But, since the new road surface was installed, residents who live close to the road have found the noise from passing traffic unbearable.

Joe Copus, who lives close to a section of the road where strips of block paving have been laid, said he found it difficult to sleep.

Mr Copus said: "It sounds exactly like an aeroplane taking off and even when the windows are closed you can still hear it.

"It can keep you awake all night long and you can't sit in the garden and talk to people as you can't hear each other."

As a result of the complaints by residents, the county council has agreed to lift up a small section of the noisy 'rumble-strip' surface and re-lay it.

If this is successful, the county council may then repeat this process in the rest of the road.

The residents' campaign has been supported by Spencer Dallington Residents Association and Northampton Borough Councillor Gareth Eales (Lab, Spencer).

Councillor Eales said: "The noise has caused a lot of disturbance to a lot of people. The problem is that it is supposed to be a 20mph zone but that does not seem to have reduced the speed of the vehicles."

A petition calling on the county council to meet residents to discuss the problems with the noise of the road received more than 500 signatures.

The issue of the noise will be discussed at the next meeting of the residents association tonight at Spencer Dallington Community Centre.

Contractor will pay for changes to road

ANY costs associated with the re-laying of Gladstone Road will be paid for by the contractor, a spokesman for Northamptonshire County Council said.

The spokesman said the county council had been speaking with the residents' association and was looking into solutions to the noise problem.

The spokesman said: "Although the current surface has reduced speeding along this route, we are aware of their concerns about noise levels.

"As a result we have put forward some alternative proposals for their consideration and are waiting to hear back from them how they wish to proceed.

"It is anticipated that any costs will be covered by the contractor."

Starting at 7.30pm, the meeting will conclude with a buffet and drinks.

The damaged pavement in Daventry

Pavement damaged by cable explosion

A PAVEMENT was badly damaged and part of Daventry cut-off after an underground explosion rocked the town centre yesterday afternoon.

The bang, which happened at around 4pm, was caused by a faulty underground electrical cable close to the Tesco goods entrance and blew several stone slabs out of the pavement.

For many residents in the town the explosion caused only a momentary cut in power, but around half the town centre was completely cut off.

The incident also caused problems on the town's roads after the traffic lights along New Street were knocked out.

Electrical engineers were on the scene yesterday afternoon as they worked to reconnect the power.

It was the third underground electrical explosion along a short stretch of New Street within the past few years.

A police spokesman said: "There are no reports of injuries as a result of the explosion."

MP attacks PM over policies on 'windmills'

OUTSPOKEN Conservative MP Brian Binley has again voiced strong criticism of the Government, this time expressing his dismay at the cost of "green energy" policies.

The Tory MP for Northampton South accused Chancellor George Osborne of "losing the toolbox" for economic growth at the start of the month and described Prime Minister David Cameron and his government last week as a "shady, back-street second-hand car dealership".

Mr Binley has now openly criticised the Government's commitment to reducing carbon emissions and has accused the Chancellor of "tilting at windmills".

Writing on his online blog yesterday, Mr Binley said the Government needed to stop pandering to Liberal Democrats and "eco-warriors".

Mr Binley stated: "Our gas and electricity prices are soaring so that the Government can meet its pledges to cut carbon emissions. Surely no-one needs reminding that we're in a recession?"

"Our priority should be to get the economy back on track, not pander to Liberal Democrats by building wind farms which don't even work.

"The money we're throwing at climate change zealots could be put to far better use elsewhere.

"Businesses are finding themselves crippled by carbon taxes. It may be fashionable at the moment to be an eco-warrior, but the reality is that it's actively harming our chances of struggling out of the financial mire. There is a real danger that the 'green' lobby is keeping Britain in the 'red'."

Mr Binley highlighted a paper from the Department for Energy and Climate Change which showed that in 2011 electricity prices were 15 per cent higher than they would have been without the green policies in place and gas prices were seven per cent higher.

He said: "The Chancellor needs to stop tilting at windmills: the economy is not growing and our treasured triple-A rating is in danger of downgrade."

"The cuts and austerity drive may have had some success in keeping the markets on side, but it will all be for naught unless we can get the economy moving as well. The Government's priorities must be pro-business and helping repressed consumers".

Protesters outside County Hall last week

£28m saved as budget is approved

BUDGET savings of £28 million, including the controversial scrapping of a £500,000 fund to provide Police Community Support Officers, have been approved by councillors.

During a marathon, six hour meeting at County Hall last week, the Conservative leaders of Northamptonshire County Council approved their money saving plans.

The move will mean almost 300 council jobs will be cut, charges for adult social care will rise, £500,000 will be taken away from children's centres and the council will take away the money it currently gives to fund Police Community Support Officers (PCSOs).

The leaders of the council defended the cut to PCSO funding, arguing the police authority should foot the bill, but opposition leaders and anti-cuts demonstrators condemned the party for going back on their 2009 election pledge to "provide £500,000 per annum for extra PCSOs".

The leader of the opposition, Councillor Brendan Glynnane (Lib Dem, Delapre) said: "They're failing to support the people of Northamptonshire by failing to support visible policing and they've now lost the right to call themselves 'the party of law and order'."

"They were elected on a promise of providing more visible policing. They had the opportunity to do that, but they've failed."

Instead of providing £500,000 for PCSOs, the county council will give the police £300,001 to help tackle violent crime.

The leader of the authority, Councillor Jim Harker (Con, Kettering Rural) said: "The hard fact is that crime prevention is the responsibility of the police and our reduced reserves don't allow us to carry on with our funding indefinitely."

Selling County Hall ruled out as option

THE LEADERS of Northamptonshire County Council have ruled out the possibility of selling County Hall.

Opposition Labour councillors said selling the historic Northampton building would save council money.

But council cabinet member, Councillor Andrew Langley (Con, Irthlingborough) ruled out the idea.

He said: "I've looked into the idea of selling County Hall, but this building has tremendous value.

"What would it say to our county town to have a 'for sale' sign hanging outside such a prestigious building?"

"Selling County Hall would be the wrong thing to do."

The councillor did point out however that the authority had moved out of 32 other council-owned buildings in the past year.

The Labour group had suggested County Hall, which dates back to the 17th century

The region is the only one in England which had an increase in the number of NEETs but the overall total was still below the national average with 15.6 per cent people aged 16 to 24 out of work, education or training.

A RELAY baton being passed between every WI in Northamptonshire to mark the Queen's Jubilee and the London Olympics, left Towcester in style last week.

The Indian silver scroll holder was passed from Hartwell WI to Towcester Evening WI on Thursday, accompanied by a Roman soldier.

After spending 24 hours with the branch, the baton then travelled to Towcester Town Hall with a member by bike.

It was then handed to president Eileen Reid who was chauffeured in a vintage silver Shadow Rolls Royce car, courtesy of Dean's Wedding Car Service in Brackley, to Yardley Gobion where it was delivered to the local branch.

It will visit every WI in the county before arriving at Holdenhay House on June 21 for a special ceremony.

School head to take year off for post

THE headteacher of Northampton School for Boys has announced he is to take a one-year sabbatical from his job after being elected as president of the Association of School and College Leaders (ASCL).

Mike Griffiths is set to take over the presidency of the teaching union, which represents more than 15,000 school and college leaders, in September this year.

In his absence, Mr Griffiths' deputy Rod Goldswain will become acting headteacher and Oliver Harris will become his senior deputy.

Mr Griffiths said: "This is an enormous honour for me, the school and the whole county of Northamptonshire.

"Between them, Mr Goldswain and Mr Harris have 50 years of experience of teaching and leading at NSB, so I know the school is in incredibly good hands during my absence.

"The governors - who have kindly allowed me to be put forward for this role - recognise that leading a school is a team effort, and it is the strength of the senior and middle management teams that make the school what it is - not just one person."

The chairman of governors, Yvonne Edwards, said it would be "business as usual" at the school.

She said: "The governors and I recognise that Mike has been involved at a national level for some years.

"We believe that this wider perspective is good for the school and its students.

"We are confident that the school will continue to go from strength to strength."

A delicious result for young Stanley

A CAKE sale in a Northampton bank raised £413.24 in aid of the Cystic Fibrosis Trust.

Sadie Stainfield and staff at Barclays, in The Drapery, sold homemade cakes and coffee, provided by Starbucks, to raise awareness of cystic fibrosis, which affects the lungs and pancreas.

Sadie's son Stanley, aged two, was diagnosed with the condition when he was three weeks old and he has been given a life expectancy of 41 years.

Sadie, who lives in East Hunsbury, said: "I've worked really hard for the CF trust and raised more than £3,000 for them."

Now she plans to start raising money towards a £6,000 physiotherapy jacket from the US. Sadie said: "This vest does wonders for physio and lung function. It'll clear his excess mucus and hopefully lengthen his life expectancy."

Plans for 'heritage gateway'

PLANS to create a 'heritage gateway' using the remains of Northampton Castle have attracted a high level of support.

Our sister paper the Chronicle & Echo reported last month that a business proposal was being put together that would include bringing to the surface some of the underground remains of the 12th century castle.

The proposal, by the Friends of Northampton Castle (FoNC), would also include a historic trail and interpretation centre in an attempt to regenerate the Marefair area of the town.

Councillor David Mackintosh (Con, Rectory Farm), leader of Northampton Borough Council, and Brian Binley, MP for Northampton South, both pledged their support for the project after visiting the site.

Mr Binley said: "I think this is very important because we've got a new enterprise zone very close to this area, we've got a new railway station that we hope will be in situ and we need a gateway to the town that reflects the importance of the town and underlines its heritage."

"I do urge the people of Northampton to recognise what they've got. We've got a lot of heritage and history and it's about time we talked up Northampton."

The heritage gateway project will be included in documents detailing regeneration in the town.

Councillor Mackintosh said: "The borough council is evaluating a number of proposals to look at how our heritage assets might be incorporated into other plans, including how best to both preserve and promote the heritage gateway into Northampton from Castle Station into the town centre."

"As someone born and bred in the town I am proud of Northampton's great past and want to ensure this is reflected in its future."

Dr Marie Dickie, a member of FoNC, said the group was very close to publishing its proposal. She said: "It's good finally to have got a sense that all the authorities that could have an influence on this, and the voluntary organisations, do think this is a good idea and are willing to co-operate."

"There's going to have to be a negotiation of how we do this over time to fit in with other developments."

She said: "The next step will be the people of Northampton has got to get behind this. We really need people to start saying this is what we really want for Northampton."

Foster family children in special event

A CHOIR made up of foster carers' birth children was the first of its kind to perform at Wembley Stadium.

Karing Kids, an activity and support group exclusively for six to 16-year-olds, who are the birth children of foster carers, formed the choir to take part in the national Voice in a Million concert.

With the help of amateur thespian Will Dyson, the group has been rehearsing weekly in the lead up to the event which aims to raise awareness of children who no longer live with their parents.

Corrine Skeel, a fostering team manager for Northamptonshire County Council, which has run the group for five years, said: "The fostering task is a family task and has a huge impact on everyone involved. This group allows the birth children to get together to share their experiences and concerns as well as to have fun. It's important that birth children are as happy as fostering children. We're really proud and excited about the choir."

The 16-strong choir made up 7,500 children singing at the Voice in a Million concert, supported by the British Association for Adoption and Fostering.

Josh Wright, aged nine, from Little Billing, said the concert was a "once in a lifetime" opportunity. He added: "I'm passionate about singing, I do it all the time. I'm not at all nervous, I'm really excited."

Leah Thompkins, aged 15, from Denton, said: "I've been coming to the group since it started and it's great because you know you've always got someone to talk to who understands. It makes me feel really good to know that my family is helping to give other children a good start in life, but it can be hard sometimes. So it's really fun to come here and get away from it."

Extra staff training at care homes

CARE home staff are being given extra training, paid for by the NHS, to spot the early signs of health issues, such as those suffered by residents of Parkside House in Northampton, who died of neglect.

NHS Northamptonshire is pumping £70,000 into the scheme at 15 homes, aimed at improving standards of care and spotting pressure ulcers, diabetes and early signs of Alzheimers disease, as well as handling of medication and pain relief.

At least two of the five pensioners from Parkside, in Kingsley - who were the subject of a serious case review, after they died within two weeks of each other in 2009 - had severe pressure ulcers that staff had failed to recognise.

Andrea Goodall, manager of Brownlands Nursing Home in London Road, Daventry, has so far passed on training to 40 staff in every different job at the home, who have in turn passed the knowledge on to others.

She said: "A lot of people don't know that a small red patch can develop into a very serious sore, and refreshing people's knowledge helps us see things before they develop. And there's no reason why all of us shouldn't have this knowledge because all of us are here to care for the residents."

Tracie Lavelle hand-feeding one of the lambs, at Bliss Lane Nursery, Flore

DESPITE the unpredictable British weather we've been experiencing, spring has definitely sprung in one Northamptonshire village.

Bliss Lane Nursery in Flore has been offering visitors the chance to get up close to some of this season's new arrivals: a number of spring lambs.

However, three of the newborn lambs have been abandoned by their mums or orphaned and are now being hand fed by their owners to ensure their survival.

Visitors can see the lambs for £1. It's 50p for a bag of food and will be £1 for a bottle of milk once the lambs get bigger.

Jobs for Specials on hold

POLICE chiefs have suspended recruitment for special constables in the county after admitting the force had to 'review' its officer training capacity.

Last week, Northamptonshire Police Authority approved plans to lift a recruitment freeze and recruit a small number of regular police officers, after it emerged the force did not have enough PCs.

Wootton Hall bosses said the move meant they may not now have the "capability" to continue recruiting special volunteers as well. On Monday, an open day for special constable recruitment was cancelled with the October 2012 intake set to be postponed.

The force had been keen to recruit specials, who volunteer for free, as part of a push to maintain police visibility across the county.

However, Linda Charker, assistant chief officer (resources) said: "Following the police authority's budget meetings last week and the announcement that we will be re-opening police officer recruitment in the new financial year, we are reviewing our training capacity and capabilities.

"As a result, special constable recruitment has temporarily been put on hold whilst we review our training resources to ensure we are in the best position to be able to continue to recruit both police officers and special constables.

"Special constables are a highly valued and important part of Northants Police, working with us on a voluntary basis, helping to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour and improve public confidence and satisfaction."

Police are due to begin recruiting new PCs shortly, however senior officers said they were unlikely to open recruitment to applicants outside the police service "for the foreseeable future".

Instead, police chiefs said they were "very keen" to initially offer opportunities to those who are already serving within the service, both in Northamptonshire and further afield, with PCSOs and specials coming under consideration. A police spokesman said: "It is expected that candidates for these roles will be transferees from other forces, followed by the force's serving Police Community Support Officers (PCSOs) and special constables."

Sep 10 & 17 2012

Flying from Luton & Birmingham

Full day 3 lakes excursion

New jobs are created at former nightclub

CONVERTING a former Northampton nightclub into a 24-hour gym would create 30 new jobs in the town, the company behind the plans have said.

The Lava & Ignite club in St Peter's Way closed in October last year following a tragic crushing accident which led to the deaths of clubbers Nabila Nanfuka, aged 22, and Laurene-Danielle Jackson, aged 19.

Earlier this month, Yorkshire-based firm Pure Gym announced plans to convert the now disused club into a 24-hour, seven-day-a-week gym and now, full details of the plans have been submitted to Northampton Borough Council.

In documents submitted to the Guildhall, the firm said residents of Northampton they had spoken to welcomed the idea of creating a gym which would be open all day and night.

They said: "People feel there is a real need for a low cost, high value gym in this area and it would be particularly useful for shift workers, students and those people working unsociable hours who want to train but cannot at other clubs as they do not offer a 24 hour facility. It would also appeal to those people working in the town centre who want to train on the way to or from work."

School of hard knocks

AN INSIGHTFUL look at the tribulations of modern school life comes to Northampton's Royal & Derngate this week.

Matthew Dunster's much-lauded production of Vivienne Franzmann's new play Mogadishu will be at the theatre until Saturday, March 3.

Mogadishu follows the story of a well-intentioned white teacher in an inner-city school, who finds herself the victim when caught up in a school yard fight.

While trying to protect a black student from exclusion, the tables are turned as he convinces his friends to spin a story of lies accusing her of racial assault.

This is Franzmann's debut play, which she has since adapted for BBC Radio 3. She was inspired to write the play by her time working as a teacher in inner-city London schools.

The play has won the Bruntwood and George Devine play-writing awards.

Franzmann left teaching in 2009 to pursue her writing career. She received a nomination for the Most Promising Playwright in the Evening Standard Theatre Awards. Her second play, The Witness – commissioned by the Royal Court – is due to be staged in the Jerwood Theatre Upstairs in June 2012.

Matthew Dunster is a director, actor and writer whose recent work includes The Two Gentlemen of Verona at Royal & Derngate last autumn. He is currently under commission to the Young Vic where he is an Associate Artist.

He has written and directed for BBC Radio 4, directed at the National Theatre and collaborated with The Pet Shop Boys on original ballet The Most Incredible Thing at Sadler's Wells.

Amongst the cast members returning from the original production are Hammied Animashaun, Tara Hodge and Tendayi Jembere and joining the production for this revival are Jonathan Cullen, Jason Barnett and Jackie Clune.

Mogadishu is a Royal Exchange Theatre Manchester and Lyric Hammersmith production, and takes to the Royal stage from Tuesday at 7.45pm with matinees at 2.30pm on Thursday and Saturday.

Tickets, priced from £8.50 to £24.50 can be booked by calling Box Office on 01604 624811 or online at www.royalandderngate.co.uk.

Feel the stomping rhythm

THEATRICAL sensation Stomp brings foot-stamping, finger-drumming, and adrenaline when it comes to Northampton's Royal & Derngate this week.

Now celebrating 20 years, this show started from a single drum, hanging around Luke Cresswell's neck back in 1992.

Since those early days, creators and co-directors Luke Cresswell and Steve McNicholas have developed a unique, universal language of rhythm, theatre, comedy and dance.

To date, it has been seen by audiences totalling nearly 20 million across more than 43 countries.

This show will take to the Derngate stage until Saturday, March 3, as part of a nationwide tour.

It features new routines, new choreography and new music.

Tickets are priced from £15 to £29.50. Call Box Office on 01604 624811 to book or visit www.royalandderngate.co.uk.

Combining magic and showmanship

DERREN Brown – a performer who combines magic, suggestion, psychology, misdirection and showmanship in order to seemingly predict and control human behaviour – brings his new show, Svengali, to Milton Keynes Theatre this week.

For the past ten years Derren has created TV and stage performances that have stunned audiences.

The show, which runs until Friday, March 2, is recommended for ages 12 plus. Tickets are priced from £35 to £45. To book call: 0844 871 7652 or visit: www.atgtickets.com/miltonkeynes.

PALLISERS COMPLETE BBC 8-DVD BOX SET

Based on six political novels by Anthony Trollope, The Pallisers stars Philip Latham as Plantagenet Palliser and Susan Hampshire as Lady Glenconner.

Set in the palatial country houses and grand Mayfair salons of mid-Victorian England, The Pallisers is a wonderful saga of wealth, passion, power, intrigue and scandal.

Plantagenet Palliser and the spirited Lady Glenconner are both thoroughly but unsuitably in love with others when their elders declare them the perfect match. It is a politically advantageous marriage setting the stage for this fascinating chronicle of three generations of a powerful aristocratic family.

Over 21 hours on 8-dvds,

ROADTEST: Ford Focus 1.6 TDCi Titanium X Estate

REVIEW BY IAN DONALDSON

Space cruiser

BMW calls them Tourer, Audi goes for Avant, Peugeot favours SW, while Vauxhall reckons Sports Tourer sums it up. Ford simply calls the more luggage friendly version of its cars... estates.

After all, that's what everyone calls a car with extra glass on the side and more space behind the back seats. Nice and uncomplicated and refreshingly free from marketing speak too.

Actually, a lot of Ford bigwigs give away the American roots of their company and refer to estates as 'wagons' before remembering they're addressing a UK audience.

Call it what you like, the new Focus Estate is a load lugger that's usefully bigger than the car it replaces and as good to drive as the slightly shorter, less family friendly hatch it's based on.

For the £750 extra asked for the estate over a hatch you gain a longer car (plus 19.8cms, or more than eight inches in old money) which devotes the extra length to a much bigger load area with the rear seats in place or folded flat.

There's usefully more headroom in the rear seat too, a consequence of a roof line that lingers longer before plunging to the rear window.

Should you need the very largest load space in its class, you'll discover a bit more on offer in rivals from Vauxhall and Volkswagen with the rear seats in use. The Focus just beats the VW with seats down, although all three are close enough in space not to let break a deal.

The Focus seats flop forward easily to reveal a load space that's both flat and wider than the Focus hatch and neatly trimmed with carpet and ready for a dealer fit bootliner (£39) and dog guard (£130).

With the practicalities out of the way it's time to start the diesel engine and see how this third generation Focus measures up to the extraordinarily high standard set by the first one from 1998, when it set new benchmarks for the way an everyday car can feel at the wheel.

Well, like the second new model this third version has traded some fun for a more grown up feel. It lacks the light on its toes feel that once made a Focus a sheer delight for keener drivers but has become a much quieter, more mature sort of car.

Some drivers will mourn the passing of the old model, many more will simply appreciate how they can now contemplate downsizing from a seemingly more luxurious car and not miss the sense of space or refinement.

Even with a diesel engine doing the donkeywork, this is a quiet car quite capable of cruising at the motorway limit while driver and rear seat passengers chat without raising their voices.

A trip computer that showed 48mpg after several hundred miles of mixed motoring will surely tempt doubters to trade down a size or two and an options list that pushes the car deep into high-tech territory adds allure too.

The test car would practically park itself at the kerb when asked; identifying a suitable space and turning the steering wheel as you reversed in. It tackles spaces shorter than a timid driver would dare contemplate – and placed the car to an inch from the kerb.

Add in headlights that dip themselves and brakes that apply automatically in likely low speed collisions and you have one very grown up car.

Public Exhibition on Monday 5 March and Tuesday 6 March 2012

The University of Northampton would like to invite you to an exhibition to present its revised plans for the redevelopment of the St John's car park site to build student accommodation facilities for up to 464 students.

The exhibition will be held on Monday 5 March 2012 from 4pm to 8pm and Tuesday 6 March 2012 from 12 noon to 4pm at The Guildhall, St Giles Square, Northampton, NN1 1DE in the Court Room (enter by the main entrance to the Guildhall). Members of the University's project team will be available to answer questions.

Feedback received at the first public exhibition on 5 and 6 December 2011 at The Guildhall, Northampton, which was attended by approximately 100 people, and a meeting with residents at Bloomsbury House on 24 January 2012, has influenced the initial proposals and formed the basis for the planning application now being submitted for consideration. WELL DONE, MATE - Stephen Myler congratulates Noah Cato after the Saints man had scored a try in Saints' win at London Irish on Sunday

England boost!

JIM MALLINDER believes Saints' England stars will come back better players and boost their end of season surge to a first Aviva Premiership title.

Saints' bonus-point victory over London Irish at the weekend has left them within striking distance of second place and a home semi-final.

They are just four points behind Saracens and they take on the Premiership champions at Vicarage Road this Sunday (ko 5pm).

Mallinder's men won at the Madejski Stadium with six of their top players on England duty, and it could be the same again when they face the champions.

But Mallinder feels the Six Nations experience, especially for newly-capped Phil Dowson and Lee Dickson, will see them return to club action for the Premiership run-in as improved players.

Mallinder said: "England have had two solid wins away against two tough and challenging teams and put in a promising performance against Wales.

"But we're always looking to see how it will impact on us as a club when the players come back at the end of the Six Nations. As far as that's concerned we're feeling very positive. We will have some big games in the final quarter of the Aviva Premiership campaign and the experience of playing international rugby can only help us as we push to win silverware.

"Of course they will all have to earn their place in the Saints team - the last three games have seen all our players step up and show their talent and character in some challenging situations.

"Our lads have got on really well in the Six Nations and we're all proud of what they've done. Being part of an England team that as a whole has very little experience will not have been easy, but Lee Dickson and Phil Dowson have adapted to the higher level of rugby well."

Dickson made his first start for England against Wales on Saturday and Mallinder was impressed with how he coped in such a testing environment.

"Lee in particular had a good game against Wales," said Mallinder. "He worked well with both the forwards and Owen Farrell at fly-half, chose some good options and helped England keep up a good tempo.

"We didn't have any doubts about his and Phil's ability to cope.

"Both have become important players at the Saints over the past three years and have brought new elements into their game to make themselves and the overall team better. What has also been pleasing for us is how the more experienced guys have stood up to be counted.

"Ben Foden has played solidly and we know that Dylan Hartley is showing good maturity and leadership on and off the field, which reflects how he has developed as a captain here at the club."

This week Saints have eight players training with England with Paul Doran-Jones and Calum Clark joining up with the squad at Loughborough University.

Saints will find out today who will be released to play against Saracens, but with eight in squad and Tom Wood a certainty if he wasn't injured, it certainly shows the coaching team are doing something right.

"Having so many players training and playing for England reflects well on the club and shows that we are going in the right direction," said Mallinder.

"All six players who played against Wales made their international debut after arriving at Saints, and Franklin's Gardens is a place where an individual can develop within a committed team environment where everyone is focused on success."

Kelvin chasing victory

KELVIN LANGMEAD has rubbished suggestions the Cobblers are under no pressure to pick up an unlikely-looking victory at Cheltenham Town this weekend.

The Robins are second in npower League Two and odds-on favourites to beat Town when the two teams meet at Whaddon Road on Saturday.

The Cobblers will go into that game as the League's bottom club thanks to Dagenham's 2-1 win at Morecambe on Tuesday night, but Hereford's dramatic 5-4 loss at Gillingham means Town are also still just one point adrift of safety with games in hand.

The Bulls were 4-2 ahead after 81 minutes, but conceded three late goals, and also missed a stoppage time penalty at 4-4, as Lady Luck shone on the Cobblers.

Plymouth also conceded an equaliser six minutes into stoppage time in their match at Macclesfield, meaning Argyle are just two points above Town, also having played two more games.

Aidy Boothroyd's men now play eight games in March, starting with a weekend trip to Gloucestershire that nobody is expecting them to come home from with any league points under their belts.

But Langmead insists the team cannot afford to think of the game as a dead rubber in their bid to retain Football League status at Sixfields.

"I think in the position we're in there is pressure in every game," he said.

"There are three points up for grabs in every game.

"Okay, maybe nobody is expecting us to go there and win but when you're in the bottom two there is pressure because another defeat could set you back.

"You feel it day-in, day-out and in games. When you're in the bottom two and there's a chance you could get relegated, there is pressure on you all the time.

"You have to keep playing, keep trying and I'm confident we can get out of it.

"Every game counts and every game is massive. We play a lot of games in March and every single one of them is massive."

Langmead accepts Saturday's 2-1 defeat to Port Vale was something of a backward step for a team who had won their two games prior to it.

The general feeling within the Cobblers camp is that, with the arrival of players like Luke Guttridge and Clarke Carlisle in the transfer window, improvements have been made to the squad, although Langmead acknowledged it will take time for the new players to fulfil their potential.

"We've got some very good passers and some very good players in the side," he said. "But we weren't at the level we have been last Saturday."
